COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

SATURDAY EVENING, FEB. 5.

CONSOLS in London are still quoted at 98⅞, French Rentes at 121, and the Indian 3½ per cent Sterling Loan at 102. Enfaced Rupee Paper, however, is lower, Fours by ¼ at 81½, and Fours-and-a-half by ¼ at 88½. The money market remains unchanged, but a further payment of £175,000 into the Bank of England is advised.

In the Mincing Lane markets we notice a further advance of 2s. per cwt. in M. P. Ceylon Copper and a decline of 10s. in Ceylon Cocoanut-oil. Linseed is said to be in better demand at the reduced prices, a decline of 6d. per quarter being quoted in Calcutta to arrive, and 1s. in Bombay both on the spot and to arrive. In Rapeseed more business is doing, but the only alteration in quotations is an advance of 6d. per quarter in Brown Calcutta. Wheat continues flat, with a decline of 6d. to 1s. per quarter to arrive.

The Manchester Piece-goods market is dull, and Reuter's quotations give a decline of 1⅛d. per piece in shirtings, and ⅛d. in Madapollams, Jaconets, and Mulls. The figures showing the shipments of Goods and Yarns from the U. K. for India during the month of January are to hand. Of Twist the shipments are comparatively light for Bombay and Calcutta, but heavy for Madras; while Goods, though slightly smaller than December, are still very heavy, and much in excess of the average rate of consumption.

Cotton in Liverpool yesterday was steady at unchanged prices, the day's sales being estimated at 10,000 bales, and to-day's market closed quiet, sales 7,000 bales, spot quotations giving a partial decline of 1-16d. per lb. in Surats. To arrive they are also weaker, Dhollera with the Good clause, May-June delivery, having changed hands at 5¾d., and Good Fair Omra with the F. F. clause, February-March delivery, at 5 1-32d. per lb. In New York yesterday ready Mid.-Uplands were quoted at 11 11-16 cents, and May shipment at 11·73 but to-day the prices come 11 9-16 and 11·56 cents per lb. respectively. The decline is not difficult to account for, when almost every influence which can affect the market is at present in favour of lower prices. It is not merely a question of over-supply of the raw material, but the whole of the large consuming markets of the world are overstocked with the manufactured article, and will only be relieved at a very low range of values.

We subjoin our usual weekly comparison of the statistical position with the two previous years. The Liverpool stock, it will be observed, has increased by 87,000 bales during the week, and is now 61,000 bales over last year; while the total visible supply has gained 50,000 bales, and is now 570,000 bales in excess of last year. As if this were not enough, the receipts at the American ports continue on a scale which makes a 6 million crop a certainty, and 6¼ millions by no means a very remote probability; whilst both from Egypt and India the shipments will soon be on such a scale as will materially help to swell the increase. In face of such a position, we can scarcely look for steady markets over 6d. for Mid.-Uplands and 5d. per lb. for Good Omras or Dholleras.

The American crop figures to date give the following comparisons with the two previous seasons:—

	1881.	1880.	1879.
Week's Receipts	147,000	109,000	172,000
" Exports to U. K.	83,000	44,000	72,000
" " to Continent	45,000	39,100	72,000
Total receipts since 1st Sept.	4,095,400	3,850,600	3,127,500
" Exports to U. K.	1,621,500	1,417,000	1,201,700
" " to Continent	957,300	747,000	865,000
" Stock in interior ports	810,000	900,000	872,000
Saturday's receipts	26,000	11,000	21,000

The total visible supply of Cotton for all Europe on the 4th instant compares with the corresponding date on the two previous years as follows:—

	1881.	1880.	1879.
Total visible supply of all kinds	2,870,000	2,220,430	2,303,620
" " " Surats	264,000	167,980	174,650

For the U. K. only the figures are:—

Stock in Liverpool	509,000	199,020	110,640
" London	44,000	36,570	48,760
American Afloat	130,000	233,000	299,000
E. Indian "	62,000	38,000	47,000
	1,096,000	826,590	805,400
Price of Mid.-Uplands	6 7-16d.	7⅛d.	5½d.
" Fair Dhollera	4 15-16d.	5¾d.	5 15-16d.
Difference	1½d.	1⅜d.	11-16d.

EXCHANGE opened quiet at yesterday's closing rates, and for a time the tendency, if anything, was a shade easier. With firm advices from Calcutta, however, we steadied up during the day; the banks came out as drawers at an advance of 1-32, and at the close there were few buyers at the last rate. A large business has been done during the day, something like 15 lacs of private bills having been placed, and a continuance on anything like a similar scale would soon have an effect in hardening exchange. The produce markets, however, are too quiet at the moment to admit of any rapid development of business, and we cannot from that cause look for an immediate improvement in the value of the rupee. We quote at the close:—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 7 19-32d.	per rupee.
Do. telegraphic	1s. 7 9-16d.	"
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 7 1-32-32d.	"
Credits, 3	" 1s. 7⅛d.	"
Documents, 3	" 1s. 7 29-32d.	"
Private, 3	" 1s. 7 15-16d.	"

On Calcutta there is no change to notice.

GOVERNMENT PAPER is very quiet, and we have not heard of any business of importance to-day.

SHARES are quiet but pretty steady. In Banks there is no movement. Mofussil Co.'s shares are Rs. 5 lower, but other Press Companies are unchanged. Spinning and Weaving Mills are steady but mostly unaltered. Alliance are Rs. 35, Alfred Rs. 5, and Victoria Rs. 10 higher Empress and New Great Eastern are Rs. 5 lower.

COTTON to-day has been extremely quiet, and the actual transactions reported have been limited to a degree. Buyers name a reduction of Re. 1 to Rs. 2 per candy, which sellers, so far, have been somewhat loth to concede, but with the advices since to hand from America, the drop without doubt will be fully established on Monday. Supplies here have been coming in rather slowly of late, the decline in values tending to keep back cotton from the up-country markets. In the course of ten days or a fortnight, however, we shall have both Broach and Dholleras coming in, and sellers of Omra will probably be easier to deal with. We call closing quotations:—

Good Omra, March	Rs. 212	per candy
Fine F. F. "	" 195	"
G. F. "	" 191	"
Good Broach,	" 232	"
Good Dholleras, April	" 212	"

SEEDS.—Linseed is quiet at previous values, say Rs. 6-6 to Rs. 6-8 for ready and Rs. 6-3 to Rs. 6-4 per cwt. for May delivery. Rapeseed continues steady at Rs. 5-11 for New Guzerat, April-May delivery.

WHEAT is tending easier, and we now quote best Soft White Rs. 3½ ready and Rs. 2⅞ per candy for April-May delivery.

FREIGHTS are dull in the extreme. A considerable number of chartered steamers have come on the market for loading at the same time, and supplies of produce being comparatively small, lower rates have had to be accepted. The dulness, however, cannot be of long duration, and the present pinch over, we shall find the supply of tonnage by no means in excess of our wants. For Liverpool we now quote steamers 30s. and sail 37s. 6d. Re-lets have been done for Trieste and Venice at 40s., payable here. An iron sailer to Cork has been fixed for Bremen at 42s. 6d., April loading.

PIECE-GOODS are very quiet, and there is no new feature to notice. Values are unaltered, and from first hands there is very little doing.

COALS are quiet at previous values. On the spot prices are depressed by re-sales on the part of the speculators, but for distant delivery there are no sellers.

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1881.

SEVERAL letters have reached us from correspondents who have some doubts as to what they are to enter in their census schedules. We find that most of the questions raised have been already anticipated in the instructions on the paper itself; about others we have made inquiries, and now offer the information given us for the benefit of our readers. Some of the questions, like those of our correspondent "H," whose letter we published on Saturday, refer to what is being done about the census up-country, where the proceedings are very different in many points from those the Municipality have adopted for this city. The chief notion, which people do not seem to have as yet realised, is that there will be a census in all parts of the Empire between certain hours on the night of 17th February, the object being, of course, to avoid counting people in one town on one date, and again subsequently at another. The census referred to by "H" is merely a record beforehand of the people found in every house, made in order to allow the enumerators to get over their beats on the census night, which they would not be able to do, if they had on that night to write down all the particulars asked for about each individual. This preliminary census has been spread, we hear, over a month, or even more, in many districts of the presidency; so that on the night of the 17th the enumerators will simply go round with their returns, and visiting every house in their block (or beat, as we call it in Bombay) will bring the record up to date, by striking out the names of all who have left the premises for more than a few hours, and adding those of persons who were not present when the preliminary record was written. The saving of labour and agency that result from this way of taking a census is obvious, and the system, if carried out under proper supervision, is just as accurate as if the whole record were written, as it is in England, between 8 p. m. and midnight on the census night itself. "H," therefore, need be in no fear lest the stranger within his gates should be counted at all. If he reads his census-paper, he will see that all he has to do is to enter in it every man, woman, and child residing on his premises on the night of the 17th, and leave the up-country enumeration to look after itself. It is, no doubt, mortifying to a man with a large family, which has gone on a visit to a distant town, to have to enter himself alone with his servants; but he must console himself with the thought that whilst the rest of his family are being counted elsewhere, a great many members of other people's families from up-country are being enumerated in Bombay. As no one, we suppose, reads the names on the schedule when the census is over, except when the return is primâ facie false, it does not matter to the Municipality who the individuals may be, provided the numbers are correct. It is of the highest importance, however, and some definite instructions ought to be issued on the point, that in a large commercial and manufacturing centre like Bombay the persons who are domiciled here for the whole year should be clearly distinguished from those who are merely passing through, or have come as labourers for the open season. The numbers of labourers from the Deccan, Gujarat, and, above all, Ratnagiri that flock into Bombay as soon as the early harvest is gathered in their own country, and leave again in time for the next season's cultivation, must form a considerable element in the floating population; and during this month the maximum of such immigrants is probably reached.

In Bombay, where the plan of distributing schedules for each family in a separate tenement has been followed, the work on the night of the 17th is not likely to be much lighter than in the country. As there are whole districts of the city where not one householder in fifty, or probably in a hundred, can fill up his schedule, the Municipality have arranged that the enumerators should fill up the returns for those who cannot write themselves, or get their neighbours to fill in the forms for them; and it is for this reason, we learn, that the distribution has been taken in hand so long before the census night. After a certain interval the enumerators are supposed to go round again and help the householders in getting their returns prepared. Landlords and others are asked in a note on the schedule to fill up the forms for their tenants when the latter are illiterate, but we fear that but few will respond to this additional call upon their time and attention. Some, however, no doubt, will take the trouble to do this, especially where the estates are large and thickly tenanted. We have already noticed in our columns at different times the meetings that have been held during the week at the Municipal Office by Mr. Grant and Dr. Weir, to which the leading men of the various classes of the community were invited. What seems to us to be required of such persons is, that they should use their influence chiefly in combating the apprehension and prejudice that is certain to be found in the lower and illiterate classes. These latter can best be reached through their caste or sect-leaders; and it is in this direction, as well as in more general co-operation, that the influence of the gentlemen who attended these meetings may most profitably be exerted. The course taken by the Mussulman leaders at the Thursday meeting, reported in our supplement of Saturday, seems eminently practical and business-like, and may be expected to have the best possible effect in persuading the lower stratum of Mahomedan society, which is largely represented in a sea-port town, to look at the census in a proper light, and to offer no obstruction to the persons who have to take it. The selection of enumerators is also a matter to be carefully supervised, as is evident from the proceedings at the meetings just mentioned. For temporary service, such as this, the Municipality cannot expect, even by the offer of liberal pay, to attract a very high class of men, and must accordingly do their best to distribute those they have in the manner most likely to bring good work out of them. To send Prabhus and Brahmins to Hindus, Parsis to Parsis, and Mahomedans to the Mussulman quarters cannot in all cases be managed, but we see that this arrangement has been adopted as far as the unequal proportion of the races represented amongst the 800 enumerators, or thereabouts, will allow.

As regards the contents of the schedule, we do not find it necessary to say much. Some of our contemporaries complain of its detail; others object to its meagreness, and consider that after so much organisation, the Municipality should have called for more information than it will give. Dr. Weir, probably, is the best authority. The absence of a correct basis for his sanitary calculations and tables of mortality has been for some time past the theme of his annual statements, and it is certain that he is asking for as much as he thinks he can get with reasonable accuracy, and no more. He will have, we trust, the total number of males and females on the island on the night of Thursday week, shown according to whether they are domiciled or strangers in Bombay; and if we add to this the other information called for, about age, marriage, profession, Bombay will be as well provided with statistics of population as any Health Officer could wish. Several of our correspondents have inquired about the entries regarding education. They will see from the instructions that as to the degree of education only persons able to both read and write are to be considered as "educated"—excluding, therefore, those who can read and not write, or read and sign their name only, and not read. The entry of "pupil" must, of course, include persons under instruction at home as well as at school or with a tutor—in fact, persons being definitely taught at all. The illiterate class will necessarily include all the children who are too young to be taught, but we learn from the Provincial Census Officer that in compiling the results the educational statistics will be classified by age periods, so as to distinguish those under six years old from those between six and fifteen, and again from adults, or those above fifteen. In this manner those that are not of an age to attend school or be taught at home will not be confounded with young people who might learn, but do not, and the latter from those who consider themselves possibly too old to be instructed. An amusing collection might be made after the census is over of stories that have reached us from different quarters of the devices and proceedings of enumerators on the one side, and of the objections and remonstrances of the enumerated on the other.

THE following extract from a letter written on the 1st February by the Assistant Commissioner stationed at Codda, in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, will be read with interest just now, not only in connection with the approaching census, but as showing how really serious is the situation of affairs in the Sonthal country:—"My Sonthals are just now giving a great deal of trouble. They are resisting the census-taking, and I am obliged to force it down their throats. I have an armed escort of 50 police, and have had some exciting scenes. On Sunday, the 30th January, there was very nearly a row and open resistance to the arrest of a ringleader, but they could not screw their courage up to the sticking point. My men fell in, and I, with two of them, marched into the midst of 1,500 or 2,000 Sonthals and arrested the man I wanted, but not till I had drawn my revolver, cocked it, and put it to his head. The smallest open resistance, and I should have shot him; but thank God, it was not necessary. Yesterday I had an enormous meeting of obstinate and sullen Sonthals, 4,000 or 5,000 men. I arrested 14 of their ringleaders without the smallest difficulty; and to-day they are giving in all round. I expect another big meeting to-day; but I think the worst of the business is over."

ALONG the African west coast from Sierra Leone to Old Calabar, a distance of some fifteen hundred miles, in about the centre of which comes the Gold Coast Colony, cutting off the kingdom of Ashantee from the sea, there were in the end of the past year many wars and rumours of war, which had a very prejudicial effect upon trade in those regions. These wars and quarrels among native chiefs near the boundaries of our colonies are always dangerous, as they may at any moment render British intervention necessary, which may lead to the employment of force, and so embroil us in some petty war. To some such succession of events we must conjecture that the prospect of another war with Ashantee is due. It has probably arisen out of certain complications which happened at Accra, the capital of the Gold Coast Colony, last November. In the beginning of that month Zackie, king of Accra, and Assafie Ajay, king of Djuabin, were suspected of attempting to bring about a war with the Ashantees. To prevent their accomplishing their plans, the success of which would have been injurious to the prosperity and dangerous to the security of the colony, the colonial authorities adopted the strong measure of arresting the two kings and shutting them up in the castle of Christianborg, and successfully carried it out by the assistance of the sailors of the Foam, which opportunely arrived on November 8. But the Fantee population of Accra were known to support the cause of the imprisoned kings, and it was feared that a rescue might be attempted. Therefore it was determined to put the two kings in a safer place of custody, out of the reach of a sympathising population. The Foam took the king of Accra to Fort George, in Elmind, and the king of Djuabin, with two of his wives, a daughter, and some attendants, was conveyed to the island of Lagos, where he is sentenced to spend ten years of exile for his contumacy. To these measures, which certainly seem high-handed enough, but may perhaps be justified by further details as to the extent of the offences committed by the two condemned kings and the evidence by which they were convicted, may probably be attributed the prospect of a war with Ashantee, which has occasioned the despatch of 250 soldiers from Sierra Leone to the Gold Coast. It may be conjectured that the disaffection of our Fantee allies, occasioned by the arrest of the two kings, has encouraged the Ashantees to assume a threatening and overbearing attitude, and to try and regain the sovereignty over the tribes under English protection, forgetting the defeat they endured at our hands seven years ago. This arrest, which was intended to prevent an Ashantee war, has very likely, by what Artemus Ward calls the "cussedness of things" and more dignified writers the irony of fate, brought about just the very result which it was intended to render impossible, with which "cussedness" or irony English statesmen have become peculiarly well-acquainted of late years, both in Asia and Africa. If we must have another Ashantee war, the blow should be delivered without delay, so that the campaign may be finished before the unhealthy season sets in. Sir Garnet Wolseley commenced his march into Ashantee just at the end of the year 1873, and managed to break down the stubborn resistance of the enemy, occupy Coomassie, get the treaty signed, and return to the coast and re-embark his troops before the bad season came on. If any military expedition into Ashantee is made this year, it will, we fear, be rather late in starting.

The remission of the duty on Indian silver-work, which Reuter informs us Mr. Gladstone hopes to abolish, means of course the remission of the present duty of 1s. 6d. per oz. on silver-plate imported into and manufactured in England. That it will to a certain extent encourage the importation of Indian silver-ware we do not doubt; but perhaps a greater benefit of the remission will be the greater demand for silver-plate generally in England as a natural result of the reduction in price. Besides the direct encouragement to Indian art in silver, there should be some influence on the value of silver itself in consequence of increased demand for general use following on this remission of duty on manufactured silver. A duty of 18d. per oz. on the manufactures of an article worth itself only 52d. per oz. is of no small importance. In the report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons on the depreciation of silver the Committee say: "How far the duty of 1s. 6d. per oz. on silver-plate, whether manufactured abroad or at home, interferes with the manufacture, is an open question which your Committee did not pursue." They give, however, the value of this plate imported and manufactured at £350,000 yearly. While the total is small compared with that of the immense operations in silver as a circulating medium, the effect of the remission of the duty must exert an influence on the right side; and thus the proposed action of the Government at home will benefit India in two ways: in its effect on the general value of silver, and in its encouragement to the export of Indian silver manufactures.

A LITTLE more than one month ago a notification was issued by the Collector of Satara, as president of the Municipality of Satara town, inviting tenders for the first instalment of rupees one lac of the "Satara Municipal Water-Works Loan." The rate of interest to be paid by the Municipality was limited to seven per cent. We learn that between the date of the first notification and the 31st of January last tenders for considerably more than twice the amount of the first instalment were received, upon such favourable terms that one-quarter of the mêtalment of the loan has been issued to bear interest at the rate of six per cent. instead of at the authorised rate of seven per cent., while the remainder of the instalment has been issued bearing seven per cent., but at a premium which varies from six to three-and-a-half per cent. The rapid subscription for the loan, and the favourable terms for the Municipality of Satara upon which it has been subscribed, furnish proof (if any were required) that Deccan dacoities and Kolhapur conspiracies have not yet shaken, and are not likely to shake, the credit of the Satara Municipality.

THE CENSUS OPERATIONS IN SONTHALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

RAMPOREHAUT, FEB. 6.

A small squadron of the 16th Cavalry left to-day for Doomka; it is not wanted here. The movements are intended to produce a moral effect in the deep wilds. Beyond Pakour large gatherings are reported: object unknown; the rumour is considered more sensational than sure.

The Sonthal census is nearly completed.

CALCUTTA, FEB. 6.

A Bengal Secretariat notification states that latest reports from the Sonthal Pergunnahs say that the progress of the census is favourable, though some opposition was offered at Paharpore when an attempt was made to number the people, but resistance ceased on the appearance of the troops.

A rumour has spread amongst the Sonthals that on the night of the 17th men would be branded on the shoulder, and women on the forehead, with a new medicine from England. The people cannot understand the object of Government, and fears are entertained that some deed of darkness is intended. These fears are confirmed by the time selected for the final tally.

The Sonthals dread the cavalry.

(FROM THE PRESS COMMISSIONER.)

CALCUTTA, FEB. 5.

In a telegram dated February 4, it is reported from Girishk that dissensions are said to have occurred among the Duranis of Farrah. The preparations to attack the Beluchis and Taj Mahammad Khan Seistani have in consequence been discontinued.

Another report states that two thousand sowars, with four guns, had left Herat to attack Chakansur, but had been halted at Sabzawar. Ibrahim Khan of Chakansur is said to be on bad terms with the Ameer of Ghayn in consequence of the former's son having made a raid on Persian territory.

Taj Mahammad Khan is at Kalah-i-Fath, where Ibrahim Khan has also gone, and the Beluchis unanimously decline to submit to Hashim Khan.

THE Kandahar News of January 19 states:—We hear that Ayoub Khan is at Farrah with four regiments, but that his intentions are not aggressive this time. He is probably watching the turn that events may take with regard to the evacuation of Kandahar by us.

WE regret to hear that Captain Sargent, of the 78th Highlanders, died at Kandahar on Saturday, the 22nd January last.

On dit that Colonel Hastings Fraser, M.S.C., Military Secretary to the Resident, and auditor of Accounts, Hyderabad Contingent, intends retiring from the service a few months hence. Colonel Fraser completed his thirty-fourth year of service last month, and has held his present appointment since January, 1869. From another source we learn that the Military Secretary to the Resident does not at present contemplate vacating his post.

HIS EXCELLENCY, General Sir Neville Bowles Cambelain, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., having completed his term of office and resigned the command of the Madras army, embarked on Thursday evening on board the P. and O. steamer Assaye, accompanied by Lady Chamberlain. The following Gazette Extraordinary was issued at Madras on Thursday in the Military Department:—

His Excellency General Sir Neville Bowles Chamberlain, G.C.B., G.C.S.I., having resigned the command of the Madras army, the Right Honourable the Governor in Council cannot permit His Excellency to relinquish office without placing on record the high sense entertained by the Government of Fort St. George of the value of his services while in command of the Madras army, which must not only be proud of its association with so distinguished a soldier, but feels indebted to him for his constant and earnest advocacy of all its just claims, and for his untiring energy in maintaining its high standard of efficiency. The Government, in bidding His Excellency farewell, and thanking him for his services as Commander-in-Chief, desire also to record their high appreciation of the valuable counsel and support they have invariably received from him as a member of the Executive Government of this presidency. The command of the army will devolve upon Major-General W. Payn, C.B., the next senior officer on the Staff, as Provisional Commander-in-Chief, from this date.

CAN it be, asks the Civil and Military Gazette, that the tide of patronage which has so long sustained Colonel C. C. Johnson at a level of official dignity and emolument to which his warmest friends admit him to have no sort of claim is about to waft him to still further honours, and that his brilliant military services are to be rewarded with a K. C. B.-ship? If so, we can only marvel with the whole army that one of the dullest men in its ranks, long sustained by a powerful clique of patrons in employments which other men would have performed with infinitely more benefit to the State, is rewarded for being a Johnson with an honour which able and gallant men, after years of dangerous and honourable service, often fail of obtaining.

SATISFACTORY news has been received in Rangoon of the progress of Captain Gramen's party, who are exploring the Chindwin river in Upper Burma. Mr. Kennedy, of the Flotilla Company, Mr. Bryce, of the Bombay-Burmah Trading Corporation, and a Burmese official from Mandalay, with Royal letters of protection, are with Captain Gramen in two small steam-launches.

THEY appear to have heard no fresh news at Rangoon of the fighting between the Burmese and Siamese, though report says that some of Theebaw's men sent from Mandalay joined the army they were supposed to fight against. A good many innocent people will suffer in the desultory fighting that is carried on, and as a rule neither age nor sex is spared in this border warfare.

MAHOMED HYAT KHAN writes to the Lahore paper as follows:—In publishing the news of my suspension, the Pioneer of the 26th instant has made two such statements as are likely to prejudice the public mind, to avoid which I have hitherto made no attempt to write contradictory letters in newspapers. But it is with the object of guarding against that prejudice that I beg to state that there is no truth in the statement that I took "sudden leave to India upon Mr. L. Griffin's arrival in Kabul." My leave had been recommended to be granted in the middle of November, by the medical board, on account of ill-health; but I was prevented from leaving at that time. But in consequence of the gatherings and the attacks of the population which were then taking place, the first day of December, which had been appointed for my departure, I was ordered by Lepstone, because I had been attached to General Baker's brigade during its action in the Maidan, as also owing to the ultimate investment of the Sherpur cantonments. And after the victory of the 24th December, when the siege of Sherpur was raised, it was not without making several applications that I obtained permission to start on leave after the end of March, which leave is assuredly not sudden. As regards the other charge alleged to have been laid by Saif-ud-din, I was told in June that he laid claims to a horse which had been sold by another person, named Khair-ud-din, and which my brother had at Kabul. Why these claims were laid by Saif-ud-din, and laid two months after the death of the original seller of the horse, i. e., Khair-ud-din, will be revealed in course of the ensuing investigation. There is not the least connection between this case and that of Saif-ud-din which had already been decided by the Military Commission in the month of October. I trust that the futility of all such groundless charges will be ascertained after proper investigation, and I earnestly request that so long as the result of this investigation is not known, journalists may have the kindness to desist from giving publicity to such statements as are calculated to produce a one-sided effect upon the mind of the public.

A PESHAWAR correspondent of the Civil and Military Gazette tells the following anecdote about the late Sir Louis Cavagnari:—Many, many years ago now, young Cavagnari was a shockingly bad rider; but in spite of a naturally bad seat, and regardless of constant falls, he would attempt to ride any animal. One evening at mess, having been chaffed about his frequent "pips," he undertook to ride any one there a steeplechase. The challenge was accepted, and next day the race came off. The conditions were, that whoever got first over the last jump was to be the winner. Young Cavagnari, riding all legs and arms, led nearly the whole way, and, on arriving at the last jump, put his horse at it. The animal did not quite clear it, and came down, giving his rider a most awful cropper, on the right side, however, of the jump. Cavagnari's cap flew off in one direction, his spectacles in another, and he himself was, to all appearance, badly stunned. He recovered himself, however, in a couple of seconds, and standing up, whip in hand, ashy pale, exclaimed, "I've won, anyhow."

THE Victoria Cross, the Pioneer thinks, was well earned by two officers by acts of conspicuous gallantry performed during the seige of Kandahar. "On the 12th August a working party went out to demolish some walls outside the south-west bastion. The Afghans opened a heavy fire upon the men from the angle of a dry ditch, and a retirement was ordered. A line of skirmishers under Lieutenant Waller, R. E., covered the retirement, during which the party lost 1 killed and 8 wounded. Lieutenant Waller carried, in a wounded sepoy (who would certainly have been cut up) and drew upon himself a very heavy fire. This gallant action was witnessed by many, but it has been passed over without notice by General Primrose, and no official record has been made of it. Surely Lieutenant Waller earned the "Cross" on this occasion, and we hope that a report of his conduct will be called for by the Commander-in-Chief. At the same time inquiry should also be made into another gallant act by Lieutenant A. Adye, of the 5th Regiment, Hyderabad Contingent. This young officer, after the sortie of August 16th, saw one of our wounded men lying in the open some distance from the walls, and it was beyond doubt that at nightfall the poor fellow would be killed by the Afghans, if they did not fire upon him sooner. Lieutenant Adye let himself down from a bastion by a rope, carried the wounded man to the foot of the wall, whence he was hauled up by the men above, his rescuer climbing up afterwards. Praise was lavishly bestowed all round upon staff officers and others who only did the routine work of a siege, and yet Lieutenants Waller and Adye are never mentioned. It is still not too late to repair the oversight."

SOME items of news from the Marri country are published in the Allahabad paper. Sir Robert Sandeman did not get away from Quat-Mandai until the 7th of January. He was accompanied to Sibi by Colonel (Brigadier-General) Tanner and his regiment, the 2nd Beluchis, and by the guns and cavalry which formed part of Colonel Tanner's force. Colonel Pierce remained at Quat with the 16th Bombay Native Infantry and two guns, under Lieutenant Robertson, and a squadron of the 1st Madras Cavalry, under Lieutenant Lawford. He has now moved to Toong (tunnel), and assisted by coolies is clearing the road to Thul-Chotiali. Our new relations with the Marris, and the explorations which were favoured by our retention of Quat-Mandai, have resulted in the discovery of a perfectly easy line to Thul-Chotiali from the railway route at Gandkui Duff, which is about fifty-seven miles in length. A considerable portion of this road has now been made, and it is thought that in about a month a good camel-road will be open along the whole distance. The railway is progressing most satisfactorily between Nari Gorge and Kelat-i-Kilah. Colonel Lindsay, who had been compelled to run down to Kurrachee on account of sickness, has returned. The railway districts are perfectly quiet. Brigadier-General Tanner has taken over command of the troops at Kachali, which form part of the moveable column under his orders.

OPEN confession is good for the soul, and it is gratifying to find the Editor of the Guardian making a clean breast of former backslidings:—The Editor of the Bombay Guardian, he says, once had the idea that life would not be good for much without the opera, the ballet, and champagne and maraschino and Havana cigars and Balzac and other things not quite so mentionable. But there came a moment when he found that he had all along been making a great mistake with regard to the nature of happiness and the things which minister to it. He then found that he who had created him had created him for very different and far higher joys than he had hitherto been seeking and esteeming. We would not care to have the direction of the world's amusements, for we are well aware that the ruling tastes of men are not to be dispossessed except by the force of a superior attraction. They must come to the knowledge of something more fitted to satisfy, before they will recognize the insipidity of what they now crave. Why is it that people are so surprisingly sensitive when anything is said against their amusements? It looks very much as though there were something within testifying to the hollowness of what they call enjoyment, as though they wished to be deceived. They are angry when remarks are made fitted to weaken them in the battle with the inward monitor.

THE KOLHAPUR CONSPIRACY.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

KOLHAPUR, FEB. 4.

ON my return after a short absence from Kolhapur, I find that the "beginning of the end" of the case has come much sooner than was to be expected, when we consider that the counsel for the defence had given in the names of 125 witnesses. The case for the prosecution closed last Saturday. Monday and Tuesday were taken up with statements by some of the accused. On Wednesday the vakils for the defence withdrew 121 of their witnesses! The remaining four were apparently produced only for the purpose of forcing the State prosecutor to sum up. Of these four witnesses two were to prove an alibi for November 7 for accused No. 9, but they were a decided failure. The State prosecutor summed up very briefly, merely stating the charges he intended to press and the evidence on which he principally relied. The court was then adjourned to Monday next, the 7th instant, in order to give the vakils for the defence time to work up their notes.

It is calculated that the summing up for the defence will occupy Monday and Tuesday; the State prosecutor will reply on Wednesday; and the assessors will give their opinion before the end of the week.

With regard to the questions raised in your leading-article of the 2nd instant, in which the telegrams to the home papers are reproduced and discussed, I fancy I can clear up matters a little. Of course the flat denial of the existence of any conspiracy at all, which was sent by Reuter on the authority of the Private Secretary to the Governor of Bombay, is utterly absurd and incomprehensible. But in the telegram to the Times there are two statements which have probably caused some misconception, and invested the case in the eyes of people in England with Imperial ramifications which are hardly its due. The Times telegram states that "there were three thousand persons in the plot." Now at the first blush those figures would make people think it a much more serious affair than it appears to us here, for we must remember that the actual existence of these thousands of redoubtable armed warriors has not been positively proved. They may be mostly "men in buckram." The ground for the numbers given in the telegram was merely the statement of certain witnesses that certain of the conspirators had promised to bring so many hundred men. As to the second misconception, the telegram stated that "twenty-seven persons are now on their trial at Kolhapur on a charge of levying war against the Empress." It is true that the accused are charged under Sections 121 and 121 A of Chap. VI. of the Indian Penal Code, but with this important modification, that the charges are framed under the Penal Code as adapted to the Kolhapur State, and are accordingly worded as "waging, war, &c., against his Kolhapur Rajah and the Kolhapur State Government," and not as against the Empress. Your reporter, at the commencement of the trial, probably did not notice this important distinction. It explains clearly why the Government of India did not know anything about the matter. If it had been taken up as a conspiracy against the Empress, the Bombay Government would have been obliged to inform the Supreme Government; but they preferred, and very wisely no doubt, to treat it as a purely local, and not an Imperial affair, and to leave the settlement of the matter to the local Government, namely, the Political Agent of Kolhapur. Having left the management of the whole business in the Political Agent's hands, the Governor went "starring" in Rajputana and Sind, and probably forgot all about the matter, and in a hazy moment allowed the Private Secretary to commit the blunder of the denial telegram.

The judgment and sentence will be given by the Assistant Political Agent, Mr. Ferris: this will have to be confirmed, or otherwise, by the Political Agent, Col. Parr, and an appeal will lie to the Bombay Government; and there the matter will end.

Though I have thus reduced it to a purely local affair, I think that the lessons to be learnt from it are of Imperial interest. These I hope to discuss on a future occasion.

THE BOMBAY HUNT.

(FROM OUR HUNTING CORRESPONDENT.)

THE last meet was at Andheri, and woful were the predictions as to the success of the morning's sport which we heard as we made our way there, in consequence of the hot, dry wind that was blowing even before day-light. There was a fair turn-out of sportsmen at the meet, something like a dozen or fourteen, and, as usual at Andheri, the first covert drawn was that which lies between Andheri hill and the sea. The covert had only been tried some ten minutes, when one of the field, who had posted himself on the hill, viewed a jack, on the line of which the hounds were at once thrown. He made down the east side of the hill, and turned sharp to the left, heading due north and taking us an entirely new line. After crossing the Versova and Andheri Road there was a pretty piece of galloping for a mile over paddy-land, but we were soon taken on to the hill which lies about a mile above Andheri, and here the thick brushwood and undergrowth made our progress both disagreeable and slow. About a mile of this country was hunted through, when the jack took to the swamp that lies beyond, and the Master called off the hounds. The run altogether lasted about half an hour.

Tracks were then made for the Chackla covert, and on the way to this the hounds hit on the line of a jack, which they followed for about half a mile at a swinging pace, but then lost; and the Master, apparently, being of opinion that the scent was stale, did not waste time in trying to recover.

Almost immediately after reaching the Chackla covert, where a bagman, it may be remarked, had been kept as a standby, the hounds roused a wild jack, and gave tongue splendidly. He broke at the west side of the covert, and made across the small hill which lay between the covert and the railway, and it was at once evident that Andheri hill was in his mind. The line laying straight across the railway, the culvert about half a mile to the left had to be made for, as those wire fences are not nice, though they have been negotiated by one dashing sportsman this season at the same place. When galloping to the covert the heart of the whole field almost stood still. The hounds were seen toiling across the railway in full cry, regardless of every thing except the scent, when it was observed that the mail-train from Ahmedabad was close on them. It was useless for the humane engine-driver to let the whistle shriek its wildest. Straight went the hounds across the rails, and thanks to good fortune, the last of them just reached the other side as the train came up. Had they been ten seconds later, the pack would undoubtedly have been badly cut up. But while drawing rein to watch the hounds, we have lost time; and the détour to the culvert means a mile more ground than they have covered, and it's a hard gallop (in which our dashing sportsman aforementioned comes to grief), and when we do we find we are back at Andheri hill, and can see the hounds scaling the northern side. We make round to the covert as hard as we can, and get there just in time to see jack hard pressed down the hill. He takes to the cover, but concludes it's too hot, and rounds sharp to the left when about two hundred yards from the base of the hill. Here a free view of him is obtained as he runs over the open ground, and he gains considerably on the hounds by having gone through the cover, because though they are not actually checked, they have harder work to get through it than the jack had. Right back again lay the line straight across the railway. Another rush for the under-bridge and a brisk gallop to come up with the hounds just as they re-entered the Chackla covert at the very place where they had found. Hastily bundled through this, the jackal broke at the east side, turned round to the right, and took to the cover again. From this, however, almost without a check, he was driven, when, hurrah! he leads for the Tulsi direction, and if he last we know we shall have a run worth having.

Between the Chackla and the Andheri-Coorla Road there is a pretty bit of riding; but when we cross it we find ourselves in a narrow lane, the ruts in which are deep and tripping. However, this is soon left, and on we go for about four miles along the ridge of one of those grassy, palm-clad hills, when another jack is started; the pack divides, and the Master thinks that hounds and horses at least, if not men, have had enough of it. It's eleven o'clock before we reach Bandora, very hot and fairly tired, and though it's unpalatable, we can't help realizing that the cream of the hunting is over for the season. The next Salsette meet is to be on Saturday morning.

By administering Dusart's Syrup of Lactophosphate of Lime to wet nurses whose altered milk had occasioned serious and green diarrhœa to their nurslings, we have witnessed the disappearance of that disease and the complete recovery of the little patients.—DOLBEAU & PAQUET, Medical Doctors of Paris Hospital.

MR. J. H. GRANT'S DEPARTURE.

MR. J. H. GRANT, the Municipal Commissioner for the city of Bombay, could hardly have desired to obtain more gratifying evidence of the respect and esteem with which he is regarded by the community generally than was afforded on Saturday afternoon last on the occasion of his departure for England by the mail-steamer. Before leaving Mr. Grant received at the municipal offices many visits from personal friends, members of the Corporation and others, who came to proffer their good wishes on his approaching departure. Again, at the Apollo Bunder, where he arrived about half-past five, accompanied by his brother, Major C. Grant, Captain Morland, Mr. C. B. Braham, Mr. R. McEwen, Mr. J. Gordon, and one or two other gentlemen, Mr. Grant was warmly greeted by a large number of European and native friends and municipal officers. Among those present were Dr. T. Blaney, Dr. Weir, Messrs. H. W. Barrow, W. H. Watson, J. M. Sleater, C. J. Hewett, R. P. Brunton, J. F. Hutchinson, G. A. Kittredge, R. N. Coghlan, H. Curwen, G. Smith, J. Westall, J. P. Baird, H. Cleveland, James Greaves, Nanabhoy Byramjee Jeejeebhoy, Nowrojee Furdoonjee, R. M. Sayani, Raghunath N. Khote, Muncherjee N. Banajee, the Hon'ble Rao Saheb V. N. Mandlik, C.S.I., Messrs. Nowrojee Byramjee Suntok, Bomonjee Pestonjee Master, Venaek R. Luxmonjee, Homejee Cursetjee Dady, Eduljee Rustomjee Reporter, Sorabjee N. Cooper, Perozshaw M. Mehta, N. R. Ranina, Nusserwanjee Coyajee, Perozshaw Rustomjee, Rustomjee Nowrojee, Goculdas Jugmohundas, M. B. Moos, Vandravandas Purshotumdas, Jomonbhoy Lalljee, Babajee Cassinath, Rustomjee Cowasjee, Janardhun Gopal Mentray, Jehangir Dosabhoy Framjee, Succaram Narayen, Poondlik Ganesh, Hajee Cummoo Sulliman, Premchund Roychund, and M. M. Moonshee. As Mr. Grant was about to descend the landing-steps a large garland of flowers was put round his neck amidst cheers. He was cheered again as the boat started off. Several of the gentlemen present accompanied him to the mail-steamer.

MRS. DIGBY WILLOUGHBY'S BENEFIT.

THIS evening Mrs. Willoughby will take her benefit at the Gaiety Theatre, and will appear in Shakespeare's tragedy "Romeo and Juliet." Mrs. Willoughby has gained considerable popularity in Bombay and there will no doubt be a good house. The performance will be under the special patronage of H. E. Sir James Fergusson.

THE PATTI CONCERT.

As was to be expected, a large audience assembled at the Town Hall on Saturday night to enjoy the rich musical treat provided by Mdme. Carlotta Patti's company. The company consists of Mdme. Patti herself, Mons. E. de Munck, solo violoncellist to the Grand Duke of Saxe Weimar, Signor G. Pompei, buffo, and Herr W. Mack, conductor and pianist. The entertainment commenced with a piano solo by Herr Mack, which comprised a selection of pieces well calculated to test his abilities as a pianist. The applause which greeted his efforts showed that the audience had formed a high estimate of his powers from his first essay. Signor Pompei followed with the cavatina Mei Rampolli Cenerentola; and after him came Mons. de Munck with a brilliantly-played solo on the violoncello, which aroused an enthusiastic encore. The first part of the programme concluded with Mdme. Carlotta Patti's first song—Meyerbeer's Shadow Song—her rendering of which caused her to be called to the front three times to bow her acknowledgments of the hearty applause which followed. In the second part Mdme. Patti, Mons. de Munck, and Herr Mack each appeared twice. Mdme. Patti sang first Verdi's Aria de Rigoletto, and sang again in answer to the encore her grand performance produced; and later she sang a duo—Elisir d'Amore—with Signor Pompei, which was very lively and amusing. Mons. de Munck's violoncello-playing was a great treat. The songs Mdme. Patti sang on Saturday—the Shadow Song especially—afforded a fine opportunity for displaying the great command she has over her voice and of illustrating its wide compass: but something more of the ballad character would give a more just idea to the majority of the audience of her splendid vocal power. Another concert is announced for Wednesday next, when perhaps something of this nature may be included in the programme.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

THE "Colleen Bawn" was produced at the Gaiety on Saturday night before a fairly large audience, and must, on the whole, be pronounced a successful representation. Mr. Stuart made a decided hit in the difficult part of Danny Mann, the typical Irish peasant, who is willing to dare all and do all to secure the welfare of "the house;" his acting in the pathetic closing scene with Sheelah was particularly good. Mr. Turner had a congenial part in that of Myles Na-Coppleen, and he played it with much heartiness. His song the "Wearing of the Green" was greeted at its close with a well-deserved encore. Mr. Newton (Kyrle Daly), Mr. Cowell (Father Tom), and Mr. Crofton (Mr. Corrigan) all did sufficient justice to their roles. Miss Blaine as Eily O'Connor, showed to better advantage than perhaps she has yet done in any other part. Miss Wilson's representation of Ann Chute was a spirited piece of acting, and Mrs. Norville played Mrs. Cregan, the financially embarrassed and anxious mother of Hardress Cregan (who, by the way, was not himself a success as represented by Mr. Burton), in a very natural manner. Mrs. Willoughby was amusing as Sheelah, and her make up for the character was very good. Altogether, the piece would be worth a second reproduction by the company.

THE APOLLO GARDENS.

THERE was a large attendance at the Gardens on Saturday night, and a popular programme of entertainment was provided. In answer to an advertisement previously put forward by the management, some 300 conundrums were sent in to contest two prizes (for the best and worst). Some of the riddles asked were really good, and with so many candidates, it would have been difficult to fix on the winning conundrums. The duty was left to the pit, who were "kindly requested to groan" when they were desirous of expressing their dissatisfaction with any particular conundrum. And they did groan pretty freely. Having exhausted themselves with groaning at the first batch of conundrums, they, as unintelligibly, cheered the rest. Eventually one of the prizes seemed by a concensus of opinion to have been taken by the following conundrum:—Why were the Bombay Grenadiers in the same position at Maiwand and the Apollo Gardens?—Because they were fitted at both places.

ADDRESS TO THE VICEROY.

THE Bengal Chamber of Commerce have presented to Lord Ripon an address (dated Jan. 11, 1881), offering "cordial congratulations on your Lordship's accession to the high office which Her Majesty has been pleased to place in your hands, and our hearty welcome on your Excellency's arrival in the capital of British India." Lord Ripon's reply, dated Feb. 2, is as follows:—

GENTLEMEN,—I thank you very much for the address which you have presented to me upon my arrival in your city, and I am especially grateful for the kind expressions contained in it on the subject of my recent illness, from which, through God's mercy, I have now recovered.

It is true, as you are good enough to remark, that my attention has been given for many years to the affairs of India, and that any experience which I may have gained in the past will, I trust, not be without its utility to me in the responsible position which I now fill, I shall ever be ready to supplement and to correct it in accordance with existing views, and with the requirements of the present time.

I rejoice with you that the late harvest has been almost without exception of an abundant character, and that the prospect of the spring crops is good; but I fully recognise that one of the most important tasks which devolve at the present time on the Government of India is the adoption and promotion of sound and judicious measures for the prevention of famine.

The return of peace will happily enable my colleagues and myself to devote our whole attention to questions relating to the welfare of the people, and the development of the resources of the country, and I shall at all times be ready to give the most careful consideration to any representations which you may desire to make to me upon these or any other subjects.

BOMBAY VOLUNTEERS.

THE muster at the Commanding Officer's parade on Saturday afternoon was as follows:—

	Rank and file officers.	Capt.	Lieuts.	Sgts.	Buglers.	File,	Total.
Staff ..	3	0	1	7	0	0	= 11
A Co..	0	0	0	3	2	6	= 11

C Co..	0	1	2	2	1	13	= 19
D Co..	0	1	2	5	0	38	= 46
E Co..	0	0	1	4	2	9	= 16
F Co..	0	0	0	1	2	3	= 6
Band ..	0	0	0	1	0	25	= 26
						Total..	153

Four companies were formed at the Town Hall, and marched to the Oval, where they were practised in the movements to be gone through at the inspection. There was a marked improvement over the previous Saturday's parade, the men marching and wheeling much better together, and the bayonet and manual exercises being a great deal more satisfactory. If the men will only turn out to the remaining rehearsal parades, the regiment will make a very creditable appearance on inspection. The Saturday mail departure obstacle has now been removed, and we hope to see at least a hundred more men on parade next Saturday.

He received the change in currency notes to the extent of Rs. 700 and Rs. 275 in silver, which latter amount he placed in a bag and left at his foot near the bench upon which he was sitting at the time; he then turned round to count the currency notes and some smaller silver change, when some person made off with the bag of money. Enquiries are in progress.

BOMBAY RACES.

CHRONOGRAPH WATCHES FOR RACES.

THE new Pocket CHRONOGRAPH WATCH, INVENTED and MANUFACTURED by Messrs. F. L. & Co., is not only the BEST, but also the CHEAPEST ever offered for sale.

The Watch had a marked success at the Bombay Races in January last, and also at the Secunderabad, Mhow, Meerut, and Calcutta Races, and Gentlemen connected with Racing will be glad to learn that a fine supply is again to hand.

IN GERMAN SILVER CASE	...Rs.	80
" FINE " "	... "	85
" 18-CARAT GOLD "	... "	150

Description:—The Watch is middle-size, keyless, patent lever, crystal glass front and back, going 32 hours.

There are two dials, one in front with the hour, minute, and short second hands, the other is on the back of the watch divided in seconds and fractions of a second. Over it runs the long second or chronograph hand. This dial is cut out from the centre up to near the seconds, having the whole chronograph mechanism visible to the eye.

On pressing on the winding nut the second hand will start from the fig. 12, on pressing again the hand will stop immediately, on pressing a third time the hand will fly back to the starting point. In a case of false start this peculiarity of the watch is invaluable.

We guarantee the watch to regulate within a few seconds in 24 hours, the difference in time for 5 minutes being therefore only from 0·02 to 0·05 of a second, a result impossible to arrive at with chronographs going only from 15 minutes to 2 hours.

TO HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN, HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES, AND

THE ROYAL FAMILY.

"Amongst the many brands of Champagne, good, bad, and indifferent, it is often rather puzzling to know which to choose, but when a Wine rapidly rises into fame, and is acknowledged by Connoisseurs to be of the highest quality, it may be inferred that but little risk can be run in ordering it. This is the case with the Wine of WACHTER & Co., of Epernay, which has of late been so patronised by Royalty that it may fairly claim to be called Royal Wine."—MORNING POST.
